are they really muslims islam in china reveals the struggle for identity of the small yet vital muslim community of china a little studied minority on the fringes of the islamic world now thrust into the spotlight by the opening of china to the world and the rise of independent muslim republics on china's western borders both timely and important the multifaceted essays collection of over twenty years of raphael israeli's scholarship on chinese muslims offer detailed insight into the relationship between china's non muslim majority and an increasingly self confident guest culture the work uncovers a history of uneasy ethnic philosophical and ideological coexistence the gradual sinification of the chinese muslim creed and the increasing accommodation of islam by a modern westernizing china in addition it highlights a religious group riddled with sectarianism factional rifts that reveal the doctrinal social and political diversity at the core of chinese islam

this is a reconstruction of the history of the muslim community in china known today as the hui or often as the chinese muslims as distinct from the turkic muslims such as the uyghurs it traces their history from the earliest period of islam in china up to the present day but with particular emphasis on the effects of the mongol conquest on the transfer of central asians to china the establishment of stable immigrant communities in the ming dynasty and the devastating insurrections against the qing state during the nineteenth century sufi and other islamic orders such as the ikhwani have played a key role in establishing the identity of the hui especially in north western china and these are examined in detail as is the growth of religious education and organisation and the use of the arabic and persian languages the relationship between the chinese communist party and the hui as an officially designated nationality and the social and religious life of hui people in contemporary china are also discussed the global spread of islamic movements and the ascendance of a chinese state that limits religious freedom have aroused anxieties about integrating islam and protecting religious freedom around the world focusing on violent movements like the so called islamic state and uyghur separatists in china's xinjiang province threatens to drown out the alternatives presented by apolitical and inwardly focused manifestations of transnational islamic revival popular among groups like the hui china's largest muslim minority this book explores how muslim revivalists in china's qinghai province employ individual agency to reconcile transnational notions of religious orthodoxy with the materialist rationalism of atheist china based on a year immersed in one of china's most concentrated and conservative urban muslim communities in xining the book puts individuals struggles to navigate theological controversies in the contexts of global islamic revival and chinese modernization by doing so it reveals how attempts to revive the original essence of islam can empower individuals to form peaceful and productive articulations with secular societies and further suggests means of combatting radicalization and encouraging interfaith dialogue as the first major research monograph on islamic revival in modern china this book will be of interest to students and scholars of anthropology islamic studies and chinese studies in the late 1970s islam regained its force by generating novel forms of piety and forging new paths in politics throughout the world including china the islamic revival in china which came to fruition in the 2000s and the 2010s prompted increases in government suppression but also intriguing resonances with the broader muslim world from influential theoretical and political contestations over muslim women's status the popularization of mass media and the appearance of new patterns of consumption to increases in transnational muslim migration although china does not belong to the islamic world as it is conventionally understood china s muslims have strengthened and expanded their global connections and impact such significant shifts in chinese muslim life have received scant scholarly attention until now with contributions from a wide variety of scholars all sharing a commitment to the value of the ethnographic approach this volume provides the first comprehensive account of china s islamic revival since the 1980s as the country struggled to recover from the wreckage of the cultural revolution the authors show the multifarious nature of china s islam revival which defies any reductive portrayal that paints it as a unified development motivated by a common ideology and demonstrate how it was embedded in china s broader economic transition most importantly they trace the historical genealogies and sociopolitical conditions that undergird the crackdown on muslim life across china confronting head on the difficulties of working with muslims uyghur muslims in particular at a time of intense religious oppression intellectual censorship and intrusive surveillance technology with chapters on both hui and uyghur muslims this book also traverses boundaries that often separate studies of these two groups and illustrates with great clarity the value of disciplinary and methodological border crossing as such ethnographies of islam in china is essential reading for those interested in islam s complexity in contemporary china and its broader relevance to the muslim world and the changing nature of chinese society seen through the prism of religion more than a quarter of a million muslims live and work in hong kong among them are descendants of families who have been in the city for generations recent immigrants from around the world and growing numbers of migrant workers islam in hong kong explores the lives of muslims as ethnic and religious minorities in this unique post colonial chinese city drawing on interviews with muslims of different origins o connor builds a detailed picture of daily life through topical chapters on language space religious education daily prayers maintaining a halal diet in a chinese environment racism and other subjects although the picture that emerges is complex and ambiguous one striking conclusion is that muslims in hong kong generally find acceptance as a community and do not consider themselves to be victimised because of their religion full title critical analysis of the presence of islam in china and the current plight of the uighur muslims in xinjiang the central postulation made in this essay is that the current plight of the uighur muslims in the xinjiang province of china is two pronged in its cause the first involves a deeply rooted historical rejection or at least suspicion of any religion that is not chinese in origin and secondly involves a concerted effort on behalf of the chinese communist party to gain greater control over a people group whom it sees as representing a threat to its authority and dominance in the province of xinjiang to justify the validity of this statement this essay will be divided into three distinct parts the first two parts will explore the historical background and present day context of islam in china with the aim of clarifying the chinese worldview on foreign religions and people groups these will act as important contributions to culminate into the third part which will focus on the current occurrence of sinification sinicisation in the xinjiang province to the detriment of the human rights religious and cultural liberties and the very existence of the uighur muslim ethnic group the essay will provide a historical context by explaining the timeline of the presence of islam across different parts of china where it experienced the most activity and adherence this particularly includes the southwestern ports where it was brought into the country by arab traders as well as in the westernmost reaches as a result of being part of the outer edges of different islamic empires that held territory across central asia text in english chinese trade with muslims from the middle east brought islam to china and muslims in china have had a powerful influence in many sectors of chinese society aliya ma lynn in muslims in china explores the beginnings of islam in china the assimilation of muslims into chinese culture the hardships they had to endure the struggle of muslims to keep their faith while dealing with pressure to conform and how the advent of islam altered the history of china the islamic identity is outlined to demonstrate how complete and separate it is from other identities and how muslims in china have fought to keep this identity alive

this volume offers a narrative summary of the history of islam in china and provides annotated topically arranged bibliographic entries for more than four hundred works on this topic the purpose of this paper is to examine the history of the chinese muslims who moved to malaysia and explain the different factors that have influenced this migration at different historical stages i separate this history mainly into two parts namely before the twentieth century and from the twentieth century onward before the twentieth century the majority of chinese muslims who streamed into malaysia were chinese immigrants who became chinese muslims by converting to islam from the twentieth century onward however the majority of chinese muslims who came to malaysia were muslim hui from china who believed in islam and spoke chinese and who constituted an ethno religious minority group xinjiang the nominally autonomous region in china s far northwest is of increasing international strategic and economic importance with a population which is mainly non chinese and muslim there are powerful forces for autonomy and independence in xinjiang this book provides a comprehensive overview of xinjiang it introduces xinjiang s history economy and society and above all outlines the political and religious opposition by the uyghur and other turkic peoples of xinjiang to chinese communist rule hong kong is a global city state under the sovereignty of the people s republic of china and is home to around 250 000 muslims practicing islam however existing studies of the muslim majority communities in asia and the northwest china largely ignore the muslim community in hong kong islam and china s hong kong skillfully fills this gap and investigates how ethnic and chinese speaking muslims negotiate their identities and the increasing public attention to islam in hong kong examining a range of issues and challenges facing muslims in hong kong this book focuses on the three different diasporic muslim communities and reveals the city state s triple islamic heritage and distinctive islamic culture it begins with the transition from the colonial to the post colonial era and explores how this has impacted on the experiences of the muslim diaspora and the ways this shift has compelled the community to adapt to chinese nationalism whilst forging greater links with the gulf then with reference to the rise of new media and technology the book examines the heightened presence of islam in the chinese public sphere alongside the emergence of chinese islamic websites which have sought to balance transnational muslim solidarity and sensitivity towards chinese government s concern of external extremism finally it concludes by investigating hong kong s growing awareness of the muslim minorities demands for islamic religious education and how this links with the city state s aspiration to become the new gateway for islamic finance indeed wai yip ho posits that hong kong is now shifting from its role as the broker that bridged east and west during the cold war to that of a new mediator between china and the middle east drawing on extensive ethnographic research this book thoughtfully charts a new area of inquiry and as such will be welcomed by students and scholars of chinese studies islamic studies asian studies and ethnicity studies open access edition doi 10 6069 9780295800554 the chinese speaking muslims have for centuries been an inseparable but anomalous part of chinese society sinophone yet incomprehensible local yet outsiders normal but different long regarded by the chinese government as prone to violence they have challenged fundamental chinese conceptions of self and other and denied the totally transforming power of chinese civilization by tenaciously maintaining connections with central and west asia as well as some cultural differences from their non muslim neighbors familiar strangers narrates a history of the muslims of northwest china at the intersection of the frontiers of the mongolian manchu tibetan turkic and chinese cultural regions based on primary and secondary sources in a variety of languages familiar strangers examines the nature of ethnicity and periphery the role of religion and ethnicity in personal and collective decisions in violent times and the complexity of belonging to two cultures at once concerning itself with a frontier very distant from the core areas of chinese culture and very strange to most chinese it explores the influence of language religion and place on sino muslim identity traces the 1200 year history of muslims in china and shows how tremendous changes in the country impacted chinese muslim communities

one of the most controversial policies in chinese minority education concerns the so called inland ethnic minority schools or classes in han inhabited areas in china since 2000 boarding xinjiang classes have been established in the eastern cities of china for high school students from the xinjiang uyghur autonomous region in order to educate young uyghur and other ethnic minority students through the national curricula although the xinjiang classes are supposed to promote ethnic integration between the muslim uyghur minority and the han majority there often remains a gap between the stated policy goal and its actual implementation guided by the theoretical framework of social capital analysis this book therefore examines how uyghur students in the xinjiang classes respond to the school goal of ethnic integration chen conceptualizes the process of uyghur students responses to the school goal of ethnic integration as social recapitalization while their former social capital from families or communities in xinjiang is constrained in the boarding school uyghur youths are able to develop independent and new social capital to facilitate their schooling nonetheless they lack bridging social capital which makes the goal of ethnic integration more difficult to achieve this book explores the fascinating and complex histories of islam and china meticulously researched and captivating it provides a comprehensive history of the encounters and relationship between these two great civilizations as well as the unique development and indigenization of islam within china the work looks at the early interactions between arab muslim traders and the tang dynasty in the seventh century shedding light on the establishment of the first muslim communities in china the narrative then progresses through subsequent dynasties examining the ebbs and flows of muslim influence integration and indigenization it looks at the emergence of the hui and other muslim ethnic groups who play a central role in the story of chinese islam by delving into their customs beliefs and distinctive practices the authors unveil the intricate process of indigenization where islam becomes deeply rooted in chinese culture and society one of the unique features of this collection is the nuanced analysis of the impact of major political events as well as gradual social changes on the process of adoption and transmission of islam in china the authors also highlight the role of economic activities chinese islamic scholars and key architectural landmarks in this multifaceted history part of the global islamic cultures series that looks at integrated and indigenized islam this book will be of interest to students and researchers of religion islamic studies religious history political islam cultural studies islamic law and asian studies it will also be useful to readers who are interested in world religions theology and cultures

Tips for Maximizing Your Ebook Experience

To make the most out of your ebook reading experience, consider these tips.

Choosing the Right Device

Whether it's a tablet, an e-reader, or a smartphone, choose a device that offers a comfortable reading experience for you.

Organizing Your Ebook Library

Use tools and apps to organize your ebook collection, making it easy to find and access your favorite titles.

Syncing Across Devices

Many ebook platforms allow you to sync your library across multiple devices, so you can pick up right where you left off, no matter which device you're using.

Challenges and Limitations

Despite the benefits, free ebook sites come with challenges and limitations.

Quality and Availability of Titles

Not all books are available for free, and sometimes the quality of the digital copy can be poor.

Digital Rights Management (DRM)

DRM can restrict how you use the ebooks you download, limiting sharing and transferring between devices.

Internet Dependency

Accessing and downloading ebooks requires an internet connection, which can be a limitation in areas with poor connectivity.

Future of Free Ebook Sites

The future looks promising for free ebook sites as technology continues to advance.

Technological Advances

Improvements in technology will likely make accessing and reading ebooks even more seamless and enjoyable.

Expanding Access

Efforts to expand internet access globally will help more people benefit from free ebook sites.

Role in Education

As educational resources become more digitized, free ebook sites will play an increasingly vital role in learning.

Conclusion
